David Dymont, author of Doing the Continental: A New Canadian-American Relationship, is currently a senior research associate at the Center on North American Politics and Society at Carleton University in Ottawa. A past director of Canada's Parliamentary Internship Program, he has served as a senior policy adviser in the Canadian Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade, and on the immediate staff of the Governor General of Canada (the Queen's vice-regal representative). As a commentator in the media, he has been published in Canada's leading newspaper, The Globe and Mail and other publications, and heard on the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, the BBC, and in French on Radio-Canada. He received his doctorate from the Université de Montréal.
